The result of the collaboration between FIFA and the football clubs Tottenham Hotspur, Paris Saint-Germain and Real Madrid in the creation of the new technology is that players are brought to life with unparalleled levels of realism. For the first time in the history of the series, player animation and ball physics are significantly improved. All players have a new and more natural weight and the ball, played by up to 10 free-flowing players, has unprecedented response and touch. As a result of the work done to drive the gameplay of FIFA on PlayStation 4 and Xbox One, players will also notice an improvement in the overall intensity and realism of the football experience, especially on the ground, as interactions between players now feel more natural. The accurate movement of the players allows defenders to retain their defensive shape and energy as they slip balls away from them, keeping possession and creating more chances, and defenders are more effective at making accurate and powerful passes to their teammates. FIFA 22 also introduces the highly anticipated "EASPM (Extra Attacking Sharpness Measurement) System," which is a new capability based on the work of Football Analytics, a football club and technology start-up, to enable players to be more creative and creative players to be even more creative. The "EASPM System" allows players to increase their attacking sharpness and change the direction of the attack, with more predilection for goals and less for the assist. The "EASPM System" is an on-the-fly capability and is activated when a player scores a goal or assists with a pass, or when a player requests the "EASPM System" from the coach. The "EASPM System" drives players forward and towards their teammates by providing them with a higher (or lower) priority to win the ball when in possession. Players who play with a higher "EASPM System" display more attack orientation on their play, and players with a lower "EASPM System" display more defensive orientation. As a result, players who are in possession of the ball or are in space can feel the effects of this change. Players who are given more "EASPM System" gain access to new skills that are not available in previous iterations. This includes "Intercepted" passes, which have previously been impossible to achieve in FIFA. Players are able to perform even more complex passes, allowing

Be a manager or a player and master every aspect of management and develop your whole team. Pick your best 11 and build the ultimate team around them. FIFA has always been the best title to play PES and I hope that KONAMI will update FIFA into a more realistic game by swapping the classic turf meta with grass. Why am I say that? it is simple, FIFA football series first released on Windows OS than any other sports games and in the last few years PES has completely dominate the UEFA league and FIFA league on all platforms that is why FIFA series needs to be switched on the PS4 and FIFA series. Another thing, let me also gives an two reasons, With FIFA series growing older and FIFA series it's time to move to the next step. FIFA series is playable on every platform unlike PES series which just playable on Playstation consoles. PS4's Graphics engine is better than any other console, PES is running on an HD but FIFA is running on a 360 resolution PC, yea right,. It's fair enough that PES can run on a high resolution console but FIFA wont as it's so realistic and i don't want anything in between. And lastly FIFA series is a lot younger than PES series, PES is super matured with its sponsors and all key companies like Adidas, Nike, Pantera, etc have worked with Konami. FIFA series is still in developing, so PES series is more mature and practically developed than FIFA series. So what are your views and prediction on FIFA series for the next 2 years? And if you want FIFA series to go multiplayer or just FA series? We can come to an agreement. Hello! I have a PC that i7 7th gen, nvidia 1070 10GB ram, windows 10 build 1607, a critical fix for the game is very unlikely since you have to have uefa/fifa licence to make a match so me and my friend got my pc hacked. Not the game itself but the game panel. We found the friend code in steam games, and makin sure had some things like the intel processor replaced with the fan. plus added more ram. and other things. Unfortunately also made a key for it once we got it to work and gave it to friend code. I'm
