Thorne is a character-driven, episodic, story-focused, role-playing video game. The game is designed to be played online with your friends, anytime, anywhere, without notice. The game is developed by a team of industry veterans who have more than 40 years of experience developing games with high production values. Each episode tells a different tale of Thorne, an infamous mercenary known as The Crow. In each of his adventures in Hollow Lake, a nearby village crippled by corruption, he finds himself in chains for a murder he did not commit, leading him to investigate the truth of Hollow Lake. The game was originally named "Crow" but was changed for legal reasons after the US patent office had already granted a licensing request for the name "Thorne" by one of the original developers. Truck accidents in El Salvador Trucks are the second largest segment of vehicle-related fatalities in El Salvador, and the proportion of truck-related fatalities increased from 55.2% in 2004 to 62.7% in 2010. The number of fatal truck crashes remained relatively constant at roughly 1,500 per year between 2001 and 2010, but the death rate per truck crash increased from 1.6 to 4.5 people per 1 million registered vehicles. These increases may reflect changes in vehicle and road safety technology or in the safety of the products transported by trucks. In June 2011, the El Salvadoran Legislative Assembly passed a new law (Ley de Tránsito) that will eliminate road tolls for passenger cars and light-duty trucks; these vehicles are now free to travel on most roads. However, heavy-duty vehicles including buses, trucks, and tractor-trailers will continue to have to pay tolls for roads within the new national freeways and toll bridges.
