Train Sim World is a world of beautiful models and state-of-the-art graphics which bring historic locations to life. With the introduction of "remote control" technology, any train can be programmed in real-time to follow routes and solve complex puzzles. Two different control interface options mean that players can make full use of their gaming console, PC or internet connected devices. Once programmed, there are no limits to the excitement of this unique travelling game. Pro Range The Pro Range is aimed toward the serious train simulation enthusiast looking for a complex machine to master. Each product is designed to provide education and entertainment for users. Xbox controller and HUD interface support do not come as standard and users will need to read the accompanying documentation to fully understand the operation of this advanced simulation. Brand: More than a year ago I got into train simulation after seeing TomMathieson's video of his plan. I have purchased the Express from Whetstone, and I'm hooked! I want to thank Tom for all of his hard work and dedication to his hobby. It really has sparked my interest in trains and I'm glad to be a part of his community. I love that Tom offers educational videos with each release of his products. He has taught me a lot about trains. I want to thank the Train Sim World community and it's members for their dedication to this project. It took me a while to get into this game because I could not find something that intrigued me to want to spend my evenings playing it. I finally found what I was looking for at the TSW website.

Q: Why does the Ubuntu 14.04 LTS installer auto-connect to VPN, and then fail? I use a VPN service to connect to the internet. I connect using the service's Network Manager applet. I install 14.04 using the "Try Ubuntu" option on my USB. It sees the VPN connection and connects to it automatically. If I try to connect to another network manually, it either says it can't connect, or it does connect, but I get a warning about packages being out of date. Why would it be doing this? What can I do to fix it?

A: I have no idea. But I have a similar problem. When I connect my VPN, the system tries to open an update. But of course, updates are available for the virtualbox package. And I have virtualbox-3.2.8-64-
