Watch the FIFA 22 reveal trailer below, and experience the game for yourself when FIFA 22 drops on PlayStation 4 on September 29 and Xbox One and PC on October 4. Below you can read our hands-on impressions of the reveal event, as well as more on a special edition of The Journey that will go on sale this weekend. In future, this feature will be open to more players, as we collect more player data and input from our player community. As we look into the future of this feature, we want to understand what you'd like to see. You can share your feedback directly on the FIFA forums. Check out the guide below for information about how to use HyperMotion Technology in FIFA 21 and FIFA 22. The Journey Playable Character Customization and Equipment Manager The Journey will come with a dynamic character customization system that will allow players to create your own player. As you progress through The Journey, you will earn experience points to be used to unlock new traits. The first of these new traits is the Ability, which allows you to choose between Precision Shot and Quick Timing. These two abilities will affect how players in close quarters tackle, as well as passing and shooting. Ability: Precision Shot Focus: Increase the effectiveness of precision passes, heading and shots Speed: Increase the effectiveness of speed dribbling, scoring, and acceleration Ability: Quick Timing Focus: Increase the effectiveness of shots, passes and ball control Stamina: Increase the effectiveness of stamina and endurance The traits are active as you change your player's basic appearance, and offer real-world benefits across the entire game. Want to improve your sprint speed? Play a fast-paced game and collect all the Power-Ups. Notably, you can unlock Traits by collecting DNA, which will then be added to the base player as you build your own look. Think of the Traits like in-game items that will be applied to your player, and which will be revealed as you collect DNA. The Journey also includes the Equipment Manager, allowing players to unlock, customize and enhance unique pieces of equipment. These include kits (like boots, shorts and shirts) as well as equipment (like footwear, faceguards and helmets). The Journey will include a number of Elite Traits, including the Utility Trait, which will give players the option to access any ability in one, single FIFA is a football simulation featuring the best players on the planet, and expertly re-created club environments, broadcast presentation and a wide range of authentic competitions to bring the game to life in stunning detail and make you feel like a footballing god. 2014 has seen FIFA redefine its position in terms of game technology and engagement with fans, whilst still retaining its universal appeal and true authenticity. The game is also very popular with the press and community alike, and was named 'Game of the Year' at the 2014 BAFTA awards. In addition to its creative content, FIFA continues to be a pioneer in next-generation online gameplay, with the new FIFA Ultimate Team mode, next-generation fitness AI and global ball physics.

New Player Experience As the current FIFA Champion and the fittest player on the planet, Neymar has been made available through Create-a-Player, and you can now fully customize his attributes and techniques. As the current FIFA Champion and the fittest player on the planet, Neymar has been made available through Create-a-Player, and you can now fully customize his attributes and techniques. The all-new player user interface lets you create players more easily, and you can then customise their physical appearance, create a unique playing style and fine-tune their personal attributes. This includes the introduction of a Player Creator, which allows users to select a skin tone and customise all the skin and facial features for that skin tone. On the pitch, every FIFA player now utilises groundbreaking ball physics, which also introduces the global ball. This not only makes every shot interesting, but also makes forward passes more effective. Along with a variety of shots, dribbling and goal-kicks, the new Player Impact Engine now also features FIFA Magic, which has players make unique ability-specific looks in the background. Users can now also choose the colours and kits that their players wear, ensuring that all players have a personal look that reflects their unique skills, making each player feel truly unique. So how has EA SPORTS improved this year's simulation? Take The Field Wherever you are, the key to unlocking success in FIFA is to control the ball, which is why it has been revamped. This means that using the new Box to Box controls, users can now drag the ball around the pitch with finesse and control, rather than have to simply let go of
