But a growing number of Texans are choosing to be Republicans. They want the government to work and to put the best interests of the United States and Texans ahead of what is popular elsewhere. The list of Democrats from Texas being appointed to national Cabinet positions by President Donald Trump is longer than the list of Republicans from Texas being appointed to the same post. And the list of Texans who are leading the opposition to Trump's xenophobic and reactionary executive order to ban immigration from seven majority-Muslim countries grows daily. Texas U.S. Sen. John Cornyn, R-Texas, was among those who voted to confirm Trump's nomination of Neil Gorsuch to the Supreme Court, an appointment that earned him bipartisan praise. But he also helped the president's list of nominations pass the Senate floor by blocking a vote that would have stalled many of them. In a statement to this newspaper, Cornyn said: "The vast majority of Republican nominees to the federal court system have received unanimous approval for their nominations by the Senate Judiciary Committee and the Senate. It is disappointing that some Democrats on the Senate Judiciary Committee are abusing the confirmation process in an effort to achieve partisan political goals by delaying the consideration of those nominations. "The Senate Democrats and my Democratic colleagues need to be mindful of the effect
