MOVAVI Video Converter 20.2 crack .Q: Get a time period before, during and after a date in Power BI I am using Power BI and I have the following table: I would like to get the working hours for the specific range of time that is the time period before a given date/time, the time period during that time and the time period after that time. This is the code that I am currently using: =max({ [Date].[Date].currentmember} , ISELECT ([Date].[Date].CURRENTMEMBER, [Date].[Time].CURRENTMEMBER)) What I would like to do is something like this: before ([Date].[Date]) during [Date].[Date] after ([Date].[Date]) A: Here's what I would do: Make a custom column in your table which is a bitfield corresponding to the list of values [0][1][2] [0] before, [1] during, [2] after In your page of choice, create a measure for the custom column. In this measure, use the following syntax: =switch([custom]), [0] before([Date]), [1]

during([Date]), [2] after([Date]) This way you will get the correct measure for the custom column and you will be able to query by that column. Q: Weird issue when updating ADT in Eclipse I was playing around with ADT on my machine, when I was facing the weirdest issue. Basically, once ADT is installed, there are 3 options to open: Settings -> System Settings -> Android SDK Settings Window -> Android SDK Manager Window -> Android SDK Manager However the first one is not working on my machine (All others are working fine). I couldn't figure it out what's going wrong. I have tried 2 different ADT versions (10 and 19), both working fine. I am using Eclipse on Win7. A: I had the same problem 6d1f23a050
